

LIBRARIES

The CT State campus libraries are welcoming spaces designed to support your success, whether you need a quiet place to focus, a collaborative area to work with classmates, or expert help with research. All CT State students may use any campus library, with some restrictions based on home campus policies. Faculty and staff will also find library resources and services tailored to support teaching, research, and professional needs.

Library collections include print and electronic books, electronic journals and newspapers, reference materials, and audiovisual materials including streaming films. Can't find what you need? Interlibrary loan services allow you to request materials from libraries from other CSCU institutions and across the country at no cost.

Research help is available both in person and virtually, so support is always within reach.

Visit us at library.ctstate.edu (<https://library.ctstate.edu/home>) to find your campus library, explore our resources, and connect with library staff.